Who we are
Who is providing this notice?	Allianz Life Insurance Company of North America and Allianz Life Financial Services, LLC (collectively, "Allianz")
What we do
How does Allianz protect my personal information?	To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal and state law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. Allianz: - protects your information by implementing physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards; and - uses security controls, including encryption, firewalls, advanced malware detection, and the concept of least privilege for access management.
How does Allianz collect my personal information?	We collect your personal information, for example, when you: - give us your contact information - apply for insurance - pay insurance premiums - file an insurance claim - make deposits or withdrawals from your account We also collect your personal information from others, such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies.
Why can't I limit all sharing?	Federal laws give you the right to limit only: - sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes – information about your creditworthiness - affiliates from using your personal information to market to you - sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.
Definitions
Affiliates	Companies related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies. For example, our affiliates include companies with an Allianz name and financial companies such as Allianz Life Insurance Company of New York.
Nonaffiliates	Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies. Allianz does not share with nonaffiliates so they can market to you.
Joint marketing	A formal agreement between nonaffiliated financial companies that together market financial products or services to you. Our joint marketing partners include insurance agents and agencies, field marketing organizations, registered investment advisors, broker/dealers, and other financial services organizations.
Other important information

NOTICE OF INFORMATION PRACTICES

For residents of Arizona, California, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, and Virginia. These states require insurers and agents to describe their information practices in addition to providing a Privacy Notice. The two notices are very similar, but in general our information practices include the following: We may obtain information about you and any other persons applying for insurance. Some of this information will come from you, and some may come from other sources. That information and any other information collected by Allianz may in some circumstances be disclosed to third parties, such as agents, affiliates, service providers, and others without your specific consent. We will not otherwise share your personal information with non-affiliated third parties unless permitted by law, or you authorize us to share it. With some exceptions, you may have the right to access, correct, or delete the information collected about you. Exceptions include information that relates to a claim or to a civil or criminal proceeding. If you are refused coverage or if your application is postponed, you may also have the right to receive the specific reason(s) in writing. To exercise your rights, or for a more detailed explanation of our information practices required by your state, please submit a written request via the secured customer portal at www.allianzlife.com, or write us at Allianz Life Insurance Company of North America, Attn: Privacy Office, PO Box 59060, Minneapolis, MN 55459-0060, or call us at 1.800.328.5600.
